ACKNOWLEDGMENTS

To bring together the factual and historical material this book contains required the help and cooperation of many persons.

Relatives, friends, acquaintances, and others not known to me prior to enlisting their assistance, contributed to it. Replies to questionnaires I directed to various members of the family gave me much important information for which I was very grateful.

Particularly, I appreciated the consideration and understanding of my wife and children. If they begrudged the days and nights I spent organizing the book and working on its manuscript, they did not show it. Nevertheless, before I was able to complete the story, begun over a year ago, I sensed more and more meaning being packed into their occasional inquiries as to when I thought that I would finish it.

Much credit is due my mother, who financed the research and expense of preparing the manuscript copy, and otherwise helped me in this work.

David Blean McDougal enabled me to duplicate the book for distribution among the family by underwriting, temporarily at least, that expense. He counseled and guided me and was most generous with his time on the many occasions I consulted with him. He was genuinely interested in my project and was very helpful.

My sincere appreciation is extended also to the following, who have contributed to this work in many different ways:

Madam Coline MacDougall of MacDougall and Dunollie, Oban, Argyll, Scotland.

Sir Thomas Innes of Learney, The Lord Lyon King of Arms, Edinburgh, Scotland.

William A. Nicholson, Manager and Secretary,
The Scottish Tourist Board, Edinburgh.

Miss Isabel M. Allan, Secretary and Treasurer,
Scots Ancestry Research Society, Edinburgh.

W. & A. K. Johnston & G. W. Bacon, Ltd., Publishers, Edinburgh and London.

William M. Haddow, Donald J. MacDonald, Harry M. McLeod, natives of Scotland and business associates of mine.

Joseph C. Wolf, Custodian, Division of Historical Genealogy, Newberry Library, Chicago, Illinois.

I also want to thank my good friend and distantly related cousin, Shelby Cullom Davis of New York City, who directed me to Mrs. Ethel Fitz Randolph of the New York Genealogical Society for professional assistance. Mrs. Randolph, in turn, referred me to Miss Elizabeth J. MacCormick, also a genealogist, who succeeded in tracing several members of our family at my request.

INTRODUCTION

As first conceived, this genealogy was to have constituted an important part of the book I am writing which I shall probably call "THUS WAS OUR HERITAGE, Clann Dughall and James." But, while considerable headway has been made with the manuscript, it has become apparent that it will require a great deal more work to complete it and many hours that I am not presently free to devote to it. It therefore seemed best that I direct my full attention to finishing the genealogical section; particularly since that is probably the part that will be of most interest and importance to the family as the years progress. So far as I know, no similar record exists and I do not believe that any has ever been written by any member of the McDougal family.

The information thus far assembled for this genealogy is the result of many hours of research and it is believed to be of sufficient import to the living members of the family to warrant its protection against possible loss or destruction. Furthermore, progress in accumulating data for it has slowed, if it has not stopped altogether; and, although there is a possibility that my continuing efforts at research may be further rewarded with the discovery of additional records and information of value, the chances that they will be are seemingly remote. Accordingly, the record is published and distributed now, both as a service to the several members of the family and to safeguard the information it contains.

In addition to adding interest, it is believed that the following information would prove helpful to anyone who might wish to pursue my genealogical efforts further. It gives one an insight into the problems encountered in attempting to trace lines of descent in Scotland and should save some unnecessary duplication of effort.

MEMORANDUM

The following information was obtained from a review of the records of the Department of the Interior, Bureau of Land Management, regarding the proposed acquisition of the land described in the accompanying map.

Robert McDougal is the earliest of our forebears of whom I found record.

He is said to have been born in "Western" Scotland, near the Firth of Lorn, in 1748. This was but three years after the defeat of the Jacobites, when Prince Charlie and the clans were defeated by the English forces in the north of Scotland. At that time, the English took severe measures to break up, once and for all, the warlike tendencies of the clans. Many Scots left their homes and all their other personal possessions to escape from the drastically strict regulations that were inflicted on them. (The strength of the Clan MacDougall is said to have been reduced from 500 in 1704, to 200 in 1745). Some then sought relief from persecution and new starts in life in other parts of Scotland; others emigrated to the Scottish Isles, Ireland, England, the United States of America, and other more remote parts of the world. It is not known whether Robert's parents were among those who moved from western Scotland for that reason, or whether they left it at all; but Robert obviously spent most of his adult years in the Parish of Sprouston, in Roxburgh, near Kelso and the English border, for it appears that his children were all born in that Parish.

When I began this undertaking, I remembered that at one time I had seen a typewritten record of certain vital statistics which my father had told me had been copied from the original, longhand entries his father, John McDougal of Peoria, had written into their family Bible. Fortunately, my mother was able to locate that copy for me. This record proved to be of great importance in the preparation of this genealogy for, as it subsequently developed, it contained basic information I needed concerning certain branches and members of the family which, as I then thought, could not have been traced without it. Later in my research, I came across original entries in the handwriting (evidently) of William McDougal, John's brother, which I found in William's family Bible. Wheeler McDougal and his wife, Kathleen, made that record available to me when I visited them at their home in Peoria in June of 1953 and I have made a copy of it for future reference. With one or two minor exceptions, it contains precisely the same information that had been copied from John McDougal's Bible.

While the old family Bible record furnished much of the information I needed, it was lacking in a number of details that were important to the genealogy. In my attempts to secure them, I made considerable inquiry, in Scotland to learn more of Robert's life and of his ancestors in western Scotland, and in the United States, to trace his descendants.

At the suggestion of a friend, I wrote the Scots Ancestry Research Society at Edinburgh and asked them to make a search of the old parochial registers of the Parish of Sprouston, Roxburgh, for any references they might find to Robert and his family. My application for that search was sent to the Society on June 9, 1953. It was acknowledged on June 19 under their Reference No. B/8897 and I was then advised that the results of their investigation might prove disappointing owing to the fact that I was unable to supply them with precise information regarding the place of Robert's birth in "Western" Scotland. In that acknowledgment, they also informed me that "Prior to the year 1855 (when registration became compulsory) Births, Deaths and Marriages were voluntarily recorded in the parish registers maintained by the Church of Scotland - which unfortunately are not indexed."

On November 30, 1953, I received the Society's report. Briefly, it contained the following concerning Robert McDougal:

DATE & PLACE OF BIRTH	- Registers searched, years 1742 to 1762. No entry recorded there. (Family Bibles indicate he was born in "Western" Scotland in 1748).
DATE & PLACE OF MARRIAGE NAME OF BRIDE	- Registers searched, years 1766 to 1780. No entry found.
BIRTH RECORD OF CHILD	- Registers searched, years 1765 to 1792. Only McDougal birth registered, read: "Walter McDougal son to Robert McDougal an indweller in Meddan and Agnes Dalglish his Spouse was born 3rd day of June and baptised 23rd 1782."
DATE & PLACE OF DEATH	- No record found. (Family Bibles indicate he died on March 7, 1832, or 1834, at Sprouston).

Upon being informed by the Scots Ancestry Research Society that they might not be able to be very helpful and having been given the name and address of the Chief of the Clan MacDougall, by the Lord Lyon King of Arms, Sir Thomas Innes of Learney, with whom I had been corresponding concerning the Chief's Coat-of-Arms, I wrote directly to her, Madam Coline MacDougall of MacDougall and Dunollie. (Madam MacDougall became Chief of Clan MacDougall on the death of her father, Colonel MacDougall, early in 1953. She had previously married Leslie Grahame Thomson, who is presently President of the Architects of Scotland, and when her father died, she reverted to her maiden name and Mr. Thomson assumed the surname of MacDougall and thus acquired a "consort" rank within the Clan). The resultant exchange of correspondence has been most interesting and informative and, I might add, thrilling. As yet, Coline has not had an opportunity to try to trace Robert for she has been very busy with matters pertaining to the settlement of her father's Estate. This has required her to make many trips back and forth from Dunollie (near Oban, Argyll, on the Firth of Lorn) to consult her attorney in Edinburgh. She was further prevented from checking the Clan records for me because of the part her station as Chief of the Clan required her to take in receiving Queen Elizabeth when the Queen paid her first visit to Scotland and Edinburgh after her Coronation. Neither had her husband taken a vacation for several years and so, after all of these exhausting and trying experiences, the Chief and her husband took their car and went to France for a much needed rest.

It is with sincere regret that I admit my lack of accomplishment in tracing Robert McDougal's ancestors and at this writing my only hope of being able to do so lies in the promise I have had from our Chief that she will search the Clan records in her possession in an effort to be helpful.

For the further benefit of any who may sometime attempt to continue my research, discouraging to them as it might prove, I should tell them that many of the Clans' records are said to have been burned, or otherwise destroyed and lost in the clan wars. Other of them were lost when the clans as such were disbanded in Scotland. Then too, with the breaking up of the clans, their members tended to migrate to parts of Scotland other than those they had occupied and controlled as clans, just as Robert McDougal appears to have done in moving to Sprouston, near Kelso and the English border. These factors add greatly to the task of tracing lineages and, in fact, make it virtually impossible to do so in many cases. I am told also that many families kept no record of births, deaths, etc., but simply passed that information on from generation to generation by word of mouth, so that much of it has been lost to posterity.

The following table shows the results of the experiments conducted on the effect of the concentration of the solution on the rate of reaction. The rate of reaction was measured by the volume of gas evolved per unit time.

Concentration of solution (M)	Rate of reaction (cm ³ gas / min)
0.1	1.2
0.2	2.4
0.3	3.6
0.4	4.8
0.5	6.0

From the above table, it can be seen that the rate of reaction increases linearly with the concentration of the solution. This indicates that the reaction is first order with respect to the concentration of the solution.

The following table shows the results of the experiments conducted on the effect of the temperature on the rate of reaction. The rate of reaction was measured by the volume of gas evolved per unit time.

Temperature (°C)	Rate of reaction (cm ³ gas / min)
20	1.2
30	2.4
40	4.8
50	9.6

From the above table, it can be seen that the rate of reaction increases exponentially with the temperature. This indicates that the reaction is highly sensitive to temperature changes.

The following table shows the results of the experiments conducted on the effect of the surface area of the solid reactant on the rate of reaction. The rate of reaction was measured by the volume of gas evolved per unit time.

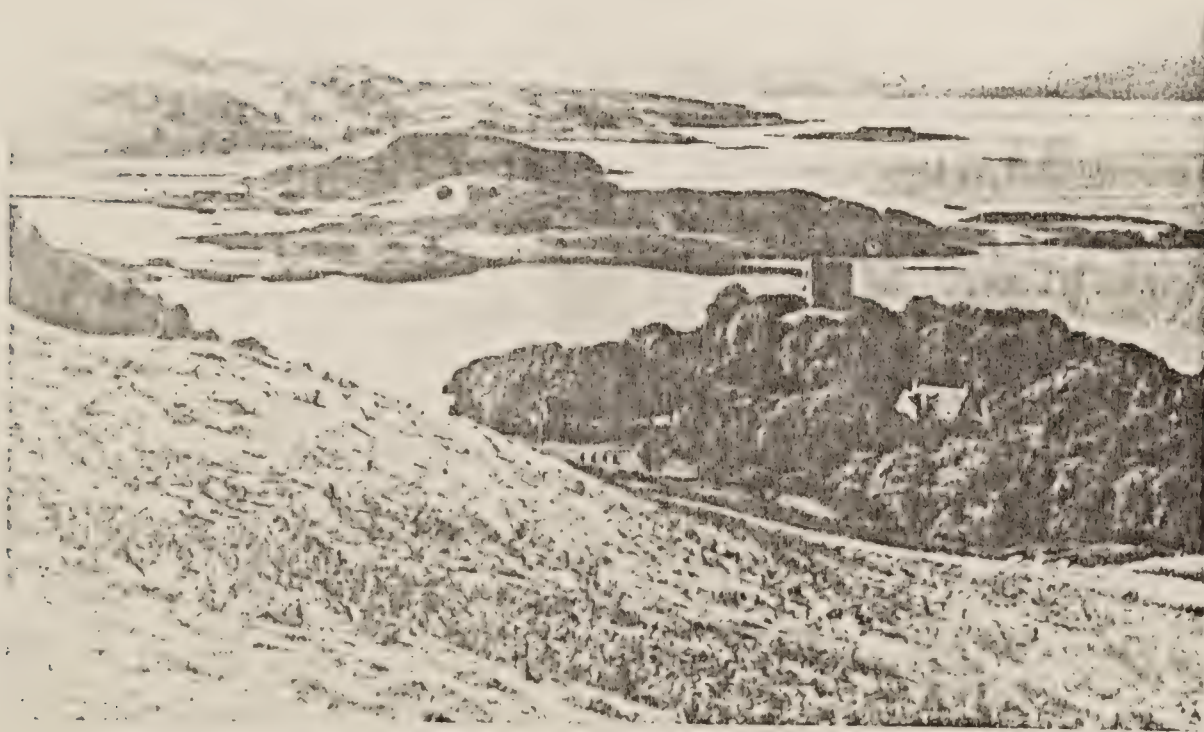

Surface area of solid reactant (cm ²)	Rate of reaction (cm ³ gas / min)
10	1.2
20	2.4
30	3.6
40	4.8

From the above table, it can be seen that the rate of reaction increases linearly with the surface area of the solid reactant. This indicates that the reaction is first order with respect to the surface area of the solid reactant.

DUNOLLIE CASTLE
(The MacDougall Stronghold)

The castle (tower visible) is an ivy covered ruin.
It was abandoned in 1740.

Looking west toward Firth of Lorn and Isle of Kerrera.

The entire estate is known as "Dunollie."
The rooftop is that of the residence of the mother of the present Chief, Madam Coline MacDougall. It was built when the castle was abandoned and was enlarged in 1820. It is of stone with a slate roof.

The living descendants of Robert McDougal of Sprouston should indeed be very grateful to John and William McDougal of Peoria, grandsons of Robert, for their foresight in having recorded in their respective family Bibles much of the basic information that was used in the preparation of the McDougal genealogy. Had they not done so, it is doubtful whether this record could ever have been compiled for their descendants.

It is my sincere hope that over the years this genealogy will be found both interesting and useful and that it will remind the younger members of the Clan of the great heritage of strong leadership and character that is theirs. May it serve, too, to hold the branches of the family closer to each other than they might otherwise be if permitted, by time and space, to forget their common bond.

On the last page of this booklet, you will find a supply of post cards for your convenience in advising me of details concerning births, marriages and deaths in the family that occur subsequent to the publishing of this genealogy. I should greatly appreciate receiving this information from you so that I may keep my so-called "Master Copy" up to date. Please remember that full details as indicated on the cards are important to this record.

KEY TO GENEALOGY

For purposes of reference, a number is assigned to, and precedes the name of each person that is mentioned in this genealogy.

Descendants of Robert McDougal, who was born in Scotland in 1748, are listed in capital letters on the left side of each page.

The generation in the United States of each descendant who emigrated to, or was born there, is indicated in the extreme right-hand column of the page, following the first listing of the person's name.

Marriages are centered to emphasize and make them more readily discernible.

B. indicates Born.

D. " Died.

I. " Interred.

M. refers to Marriage.

C. " " Children.

THE HISTORY OF THE

The history of the world is a long and tedious story, but it is one that is full of interest and variety. It is a story of the human race, of its struggles, its triumphs, and its failures. It is a story of the great empires, the great wars, and the great discoveries. It is a story of the human mind, of its power, its limitations, and its potential. It is a story of the human heart, of its joys, its sorrows, and its hopes. It is a story of the human spirit, of its strength, its weakness, and its resilience. B. June 3, 1782, at Meddan, Parish of Sprouston,
Roxburgh, Scotland.
D. No record found.
I. " " "
M. " " "

The family Bibles of John (9) and William McDougal (11) did not list this birth. The above facts were obtained through a search of the old parochial registers of the Parish of Sprouston which was made by the Scots Ancestry Research Society in 1953.
5. WILLIAM McDOUGAL: (Of 1-2) 1st
B. Nov. 20 or 25, 1790, at Meddan, Parish of Sprouston, Roxburgh, Scotland.
(The Bibles of John and William McDougal differ as to the exact day of his birth).
D. Dec. 29, 1851, at U.S.A.
I. Hannibal Cemetery, Hannibal, New York.
M. No record of marriage found.
6. JOHN McDOUGAL: (Of 1-2) 1st

I. Springdale Cemetery, Peoria.
M. Unmarried.

FOOTNOTES -

The family Bible of John McDougal (9) lists "Elizabeth McDougal" as a child of Robert McDougal, but the date and place of her birth are not recorded with the entry. There is no such entry concerning her in the Bible of William (11). It appears, therefore, that John may have intended to list his wife, Elizabeth Barton, but failed to complete the entry.

Since more than eight years elapsed between the births of Walter and William, there may have been other children by this marriage, and it may be that John and William only recorded those who came to the United States for Walter was not listed in their Bibles.

3. JAMES McDOUGAL married
7. ELIZABETH BARTON
on June 27, 1808, at Covelisle, England.

Elizabeth Barton B. Nov. 27, 1790, at Preston, Lancashire, England.
D. Aug. 26, 1856
I. Hannibal Cemetery, Hannibal, New York.
C. 3 Daughters, 2 Sons:

8. AGNES McDOUGAL: (Of 3-7) 2nd
B. Dec. 5, 1817¹, at Manchester Village²,
Dutchess County, New York.
D. No record found.
I. No record found.
M. See Reference Nos. 8-13.

9. JOHN McDOUGAL: (Of 3-7) 2nd
B. Mar. 4, 1820, at Manchester Village, New York.
D. June 15, 1914, at Peoria, Illinois.
I. Springdale Cemetery, Peoria.

B. Feb. 1, 1829, at Middlebury, Vermont.
D. No record found.
I. No record found.
M. See Reference Nos. 12-146.

- FOOTNOTES -

1. The records of the Presbyterian Church of Pleasant Valley, near Poughkeepsie, carried the following entry under "Baptisms by Methusaleh Baldwin, pastor" (Note Agnes spelled Agnis):

"1820 Agnis, Dec. 5, 1817) James McDougal
Aug. 1 John, Mar. 4, 1820) Elizabeth "

The date of Agnes' birth, Dec. 30, 1810, as entered in the Bibles of John (9) and William (11) is evidently incorrect.

2. Manchester Village was a small community in the town of Poughkeepsie which was later absorbed in the city of that name.

NOTE: The Census Records of Oswego County, New York, show:

Name	Census Taken	Age	Nativity	Relation	Sex
Charles C. Blackman	6-21-1855	33	Massachusetts		M
	8-29-1860	37	do.		M
Agnes Blackman	6-21-1855	34	Dutchess Co.	Wife	F
	8-29-1860	41	New York		F
Charles C. Blackman, Jr.	6-21-1855	8	Massachusetts	Child	M
	8-29-1860	13	do.		M
Robert J. Blackman	8-29-1860	6	New York		M

The Presbyterian Church's Record of Agnes' Baptism shows her to have been born on December 5, 1817, and the family Bibles indicate that she married Charles C. Blackman on June 26, 1852; so, it appears that the above census records of her age understate it both in 1855 and in 1860. It appears, too, that Charles Blackman, Jr., was the son of Charles C. Blackman by a previous marriage of his.

POST-PUBLICATION FINDINGS

Re: The Children of the John Niles Hubbards.

The Census Record taken at the residence of the Hubbards on June 1, 1850, at Hannibal, Oswego County, New York, did not list any children. Elizabeth McDougal (No. 12), their ~~niece~~ ^{sister} was living with them at that time.

The Census taken at their home in North Dansville, Livingston County, New York, on June 13, 1855, showed them to have the following children:

"Margarette*", age 4, born in Oswego County."
"Endress F., " 1, " " " " " " " " " " " "

*Note: Mrs. Hubbard's name was also spelled "Margarette" by the Census taker. Actually it was spelled "Margaret".

The 1865 Census, taken at Hannibal on July 5 after the Hubbards had returned to live there, showed the following:

Name	Age	Relation	Nativity	Sex
John N. Hubard	49		Allegany Co.	Male
Margraite Hubard	42	Wife	N.Y.City	Female
Maga L. Hubard	14	Child	Oswego County	"
Endres F. Hubard	11	"	" "	Male
John C. D. Hubard	3 5/12	"	" "	"
Elizabeth Hubard	72	Mother	Pennsylvania	Female

In sending a copy of this record on March 29, 1954, the County Clerk called attention to the spelling of Hubbard with one "b", and said the writing on the original record was so faint that it could not be made out with certainty in the case of Maga. (The same may have applied to Margraite and Endres, although it appears that the census taker was careless, or just could not spell.) Note, too, that Mr. Hubbard's mother was living with them at the time of this census.

Chicago. It does not, however, give the names of his children. Furthermore, the "Obituary Record of Graduates of Yale University," of June, 1898, (Reference: Series Iv, pp. 512-13), copies of which will also be found in those Libraries, carries the story of the life of John Niles Hubbard. The full text of that report, as copied for me by The Newberry Library, follows:

"JOHN NILES HUBBARD*, son of the Rev. Robert Hubbard (Williams Coll. 1803) and Elizabeth (Van Campen) Hubbard and grandson of the Rev. Robert Hubbard (Y.C. 1769), was born in Angelica, Allegany County, N. Y., on August 27, 1815. His father was a successful pioneer missionary in Western New York, and was settled in Dansville, Steuben County, when this son entered College.

"For two years after graduation he had charge of the academy in Dansville, in the meantime studying theology with the Rev. Leverett Hull. In 1841 he was licensed to preach, and began to supply churches in Dansville and the vicinity. In 1842 he entered the Middle Class in Auburn (N.Y.) Seminary, and supplied the Presbyterian Church in Hannibal, N. Y., until the end of his theological course. He was ordained and installed pastor at Hannibal by the Presbytery of Oswego, on August 14, 1844, and continued to labor there successfully until 1853. He then returned to the church at Dansville, from 1854 to 1857; and from 1858 to 1861 had charge of the churches in Friendship and Belmont, near his birthplace. He was then recalled to Hannibal, and spent six happy years in that familiar community.

"In 1867, on account of his health, he removed to California, and devoted himself mainly to the work of organizing new churches in that State. He was settled in Lincoln until 1870, and then successively in Wheatland, Greyson, and Ellis. From 1881 his home was in Tracy, California, where he died on October 16, 1897, in his 83d year.

"He married, on February 18, 1845, Miss Margaret McDougal, of North Sterling, Cayuga County, N. Y., who survives him. Of their five children one is still living."

NOTES: When visiting Mrs. Hubbard, who was living alone in an apartment at Berkeley, California, in August, 1915, my parents urged her to come back to live with them at Riverside, Illinois. However, she would not leave California because of her son, John, Jr. John was then at the State Hospital at Stockton, where he spent most of his adult years, and died. Mrs. Hubbard only lived for four months and three weeks after his death, and died at the age of 96.

THE HISTORY OF THE
CITY OF BOSTON

From the first settlement of the English in 1630 to the present time the city of Boston has been the seat of the most important and interesting events in the history of the American people.

The city of Boston was founded in 1630 by a group of Puritan settlers who came from England to seek religious freedom and to establish a new society based on the principles of the Bible.

MARGARET McDOUGAL and JOHN NILES HUBBARD,
Nos. 10 and 108, continued.

NOTES, Continued: Certain data recorded on Page 30 has been definitely established; some has been assumed, as indicated below:

It has been assumed that John Niles Hubbard, Jr., was a son by this marriage. The information concerning him was secured from the records of the (California) State Hospital, at Stockton, where he was first admitted on October 9, 1883.

The grave of Robert William Hubbard, in Hannibal Cemetery, is adjacent to those of James and Elizabeth Barton McDougal, Nos. 3 and 7. It is assumed that he was an infant son of Nos. 10 and 108.

References to "Maggie" and "Eddie" were found in a letter written by No. 10 to her niece, Mary Elizabeth ("Mame") McDougal, No. 18, in March of 1913. In it, their respective ages at the time the Hubbards returned to Hannibal from their Allegany (County, N.Y.) home were mentioned. Maggie was also referred to in a "Centennial Paper" that was written and read by Amos W. Farnham of Hannibal, on December 4, 1916, at the celebration of the 100th Birthday of the Presbyterian Church of Hannibal. That letter gave additional, interesting information about Mr. Hubbard's recall to that Church in 1861 to assume his second pastorate there.

Introduction

The purpose of this study is to investigate the effects of various factors on the growth and development of the human body. The study is designed to provide a comprehensive overview of the physical changes that occur during the process of maturation.

The study is divided into two main sections. The first section, titled "Physical Development," focuses on the changes in the body's structure and function. The second section, titled "Growth and Development," examines the factors that influence the rate and pattern of growth.

The first section is further divided into three sub-sections: "Skeletal Development," "Muscular Development," and "Cardiovascular Development." Each sub-section provides a detailed description of the changes that occur in the respective system.

The second section is divided into two sub-sections: "Factors Affecting Growth" and "Factors Affecting Development." These sub-sections explore the various environmental and genetic factors that can influence the growth and development of the human body.

THE MacDOUGALL TARTAN

A tartan, as used here, is a woolen or worsted cloth, woven with stripes of different colors and widths crossing at right angles and worn by Scottish Highlanders.

Variations sometimes are found in the tartans worn by different families of the same clan. A white stripe is introduced by some clans as a mark of distinction.

A web of tartan is approximately 2 feet, 2 inches wide, so that the size of the patterns makes no difference in the scale. The scale used in the MacDougall tartan, in eighths of an inch - commencing at the edge of the cloth, is stated below and the pattern must be reversed to its commencement to obtain the entire "sett," or width of the web:

PATTERN
8ths of 1 in.	Cont'd.	Cont'd.
3 - red	$\frac{1}{2}$ - blue	6 - blue
6 - green	1 - red	2 - red
1 - red	6 - green	1 - green
$\frac{1}{2}$ - blue	6 - red	2 - red
18 - red	6 - green	18 - green
2 - crimson	3 - crimson	1 - red
18 - red	1 - red	1 - crimson
	3 - crimson

Summary: Red, 53; Green, 37; Crimson, 9; Blue, 7.

Predominant Color: Red covers $\frac{1}{2}$ total pattern.

Number of Colors: 4 (excluding stripes).

Number of Divisions: 22.

Note: Authorities do not agree regarding the correct sett of the Clan MacDougall tartan. The pattern described above is that given by Frank Adam, who was, himself, a recognized authority on such matters and whom I later identify further. Mr. Adam is believed to have taken his description from a tartan he obtained from MacDougall of that Ilk to illustrate in his book.

In a letter I received from Madam Coline MacDougall of MacDougall and Dunollie in November of 1953 she again mentioned the piece of cloth she had sent me earlier and said, "I am glad you like the colours in the tartan. It is I think one of the most beautiful of the red tartans, as the colours are well blended together and it is cheerful without being too bright. Of course the colouring depends a good deal on the actual material and dyes used, - some of the stuff one buys is very unattractive. In the highlands, a well weathered kilt is a great treasure and the men often put their kilts out when they are new to get them mellowed by the sun, which brings them nearer to the original effects of the old vegetable dyes. One of the original purposes of tartan was to comouflage or to conceal the wearers from his enemies, when he was moving against the variegated background of the highlands."

A study of various historical sketches of this clan reveals that, over the years, its members have spelled their family name in many ways. Some of these are as follows: Mhic Dhughail, Dùghaill, Dugal, MacDugal, MacDougal, and MacDougall. Others, including publishers, use it in still different forms by varying the combinations of upper and lower case letters in the name, for example: Macdougal, or MACDOUGALL. The spellings most generally found in use today are believed to be these: MacDougall, McDougall, MacDougal, and McDougal.

One often hears it said that "Mc" signifies Irish background or descent, and that "Mac" indicates the Scottish. This definitely is not the fact. The word, meaning "Son of," is used interchangeably by the Scots themselves, as is evident from the spellings listed in the preceding paragraph. It is not at all uncommon to find different members of the same Scottish clan, whether they be MacDougalls or of other clans, spelling their names both ways within an immediate family, or branch of it. It is frequently done as a matter of convenience, or of personal choice. It should be mentioned, however, that the name, McDougall is not foreign to Ireland, for there are many Irish families by that name. A number of them live in the north-east of Ireland where that country comes closest to the Scottish Isles. Undoubtedly, many Scots of the name fled, or migrated, to Ireland when the clan system was disbanded in Scotland by England in 1745. Since that area of Ireland is so close to the MacDougalls' homeland in Scotland, it appears the more probable that many of them went there.

The following brief history of Clan MacDougall is quoted from the Twenty-Second Edition of "The Scottish Clans & Their Tartans" which book was published in 1932, by W. & A. K. Johnston, Ltd., at Edinburgh, Scotland:

"From Dugall, the eldest son of Somerled of the Isles, is descended this clan. Dugall's mother was Ragnild, sister of Godfred of Man and the Isles. Dugall's son was Duncan of Argyll or Ergadia or Lorn. From his father Duncan got the cradle of the clan - Lorn - and we have "Duncan of Argyll" on record as early as 1244. Duncan's son was King Ewin of Argyll, who refused to join Haco in 1263. King Ewin's son was Alexander of Lorn, who died about 1310. He was succeeded by his son, John, the obstinate opponent of Robert the Bruce, who gained possession of the "Brooch of Lorn". John was seized in 1318 and imprisoned in Dumbarton for his opposition to Bruce. He was set at liberty on the death of Bruce, and all his property restored to him.

"John was succeeded by his son, John, about 1354. John's daughter, Jonete, was his heir, and in 1358 she conveyed Lorn to Sir Robert Steward of Innermeath, and so we read of "John Steward, Lord of Lorn," in 1394. In 1457, John Steward, Lord of Lorn, granted to John MacAlan, called "McCowle" (MacDougall), and to John Keir, his son, twenty-nine merklands of Kerraray, six marks of Dunolly.

"John MacAlan's descendants held the lands of Dunolly undisturbed till 1715, when they were forfeited on account of the then Chief, Iain Ciar, having been present, with 200 of his clansmen, at Sheriffmuir. Iain Ciar died about the middle of the eighteenth century, and was succeeded by his son, Patrick, who was succeeded by his son, John, afterwards Sir John MacDougall, Admiral, K.C.B. The Admiral died in 1864, and was succeeded by his son, Alexander, a Captain in the army. He died in 1867, and was succeeded by his brother, Lieutenant-Colonel Charles Allan MacDougall, who died in 1896. He was succeeded by his brother, Henry Robert McDougal, Deputy Surgeon-General, Bombay Army, who was succeeded by his son, Alexander James MacDougall, C.M.G., Lieut.-Col.R.A.M.C., of MacDougall and Dunollie, Oban.

"The seat of the Chief is Dunollie.

"There is a Clan MacDougall Society in Lorn, with branches in Edinburgh and Glasgow."

As stated in the Introduction, Madam Coline MacDougall succeeded her father, Colonel MacDougall, as Chief of the Clan following his death early in 1953.

THE HISTORY OF THE

REPUBLIC OF THE UNITED STATES

The history of the United States is a story of the struggle for freedom and justice. It is a story of the people who have built this nation, and of the challenges they have faced. From the first settlers to the present day, the United States has been a land of opportunity and hope. It is a land where every person has the right to life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness. The history of the United States is a testament to the power of the American dream.

The United States has a rich and diverse heritage. It is a land of many cultures, languages, and traditions. The people of the United States have made many contributions to the world, and they continue to do so today. The history of the United States is a story of progress and achievement. It is a story of the people who have made this nation what it is today.

In addition to the material that is quoted in the above historical sketch of the Clan, I should like to acknowledge that a large part of the other data which is incorporated in this story of the MacDougalls is used with the permission of W. & A. K. Johnston & G. W. Bacon Ltd., successors to W. & A. K. Johnston, Ltd., from the Second Edition of a book by Frank Adam entitled, "The Clans, Septs and Regiments of the Scottish Highlands," which they published. (Later editions are now available). It has been brought together from various chapters of his book to accommodate the needs of this presentation.

For any who may be interested in knowing more about the Clan MacDougall and its early history, I should mention that, in his book, Frank Adam states: "The story of this once powerful clan is told under that of the Clan Donald (MacDonald)." While the MacDougalls are not descended from the MacDonalds, they are descended from a common ancestor, Somerled, and Frank Adam relates the story of him, in greater detail than I have given it to you, under his history of Clan Donald.

McDOUGAL FAMILY GENEALOGY
Current Revision

To all Members of the Family:

With your help, the original genealogy, prepared by Donald McDougal in 1954, has been brought up to date as to marriages, deaths, births, addresses, etc., since that date, and it is hoped the revised and new sheets enclosed herewith are complete and correct. If there are omissions, it may be because information has not come to hand. Errors of omission and others, typographical or otherwise, may have crept into the revision. In either case, the editor prays your indulgence and will welcome any further information which will serve to complete the record or make it accurate.

No attempt at this time has been made to search the records farther back than those originally explored. From time to time, however, since history is a continuous process, other events will occur, the record of which belongs in this document. Only by the voluntary effort of all members of the family in sending in such material can our history be kept up to date. Your continued cooperation, therefore, will be welcome.

The pages herewith should be inserted in the original genealogy and out of date pages removed and destroyed. These pages are all complete and there is no need to copy material or transfer it piecemeal to the original volume. For example, the "Index of Given Names" and the "Clann Dughaill Habitats" sections are completely new and rewritten and may be transferred complete and the like sections in the original destroyed. Where changes have been made to existing pages, they have been rewritten in full. Pages numbered without accompanying letters are revisions of existing pages and should be substituted for the old (e.g. page 29). Pages numbered with an accompanying a, b, c, etc., are new and should follow the page originally numbered without letters (e.g., pages 29a, 29b should be filed to follow page 29.) All new pages revised carry the legend "Revised to July 1, 1964." Actually, some of the new material has come in since that date.

CHAPTER I

The first part of the book is devoted to a general survey of the subject. It begins with a definition of the term "philosophy" and then proceeds to a discussion of the various branches of the subject. The author then turns to a consideration of the history of philosophy, from the ancient Greeks to the modern era. He then discusses the various schools of thought that have developed over the centuries, and finally, he concludes with a brief summary of the main points of the book.

The second part of the book is devoted to a more detailed examination of the various branches of philosophy. It begins with a discussion of metaphysics, which is the study of the nature of reality. The author then turns to a consideration of epistemology, which is the study of knowledge. He then discusses the various theories of knowledge that have been developed over the centuries, and finally, he concludes with a brief summary of the main points of the book.

The third part of the book is devoted to a more detailed examination of the various branches of philosophy. It begins with a discussion of ethics, which is the study of morality. The author then turns to a consideration of politics, which is the study of the organization of society. He then discusses the various theories of politics that have been developed over the centuries, and finally, he concludes with a brief summary of the main points of the book.

The fourth part of the book is devoted to a more detailed examination of the various branches of philosophy. It begins with a discussion of aesthetics, which is the study of art. The author then turns to a consideration of logic, which is the study of the principles of reasoning. He then discusses the various theories of logic that have been developed over the centuries, and finally, he concludes with a brief summary of the main points of the book.
